Johnston County, North Carolina Register of Deeds Receives eRecording Award

Maitland, Florida -- (April 16, 2008) -- Aptitude Solutions, a division of Fortune 500 company Fidelity National Information Services, Inc. Johnston County is currently receiving approximately 60-100 eRecordings per month from lawyers, banks and lending institutions, and in the near future will begin to receive eRecordings from utility companies as well. As the business community continues to learn of the many benefits associated with eRecordings, this volume will continue to grow.

"Mr. Olive sees eRecording as a tremendous benefit to the County tax payers."

The OnCore Recording System comes standard with a built in eRecording acceptance module at no additional cost to the County. OnCore allows for multiple eRecording submitters and accepts all eRecording Models outlined by the Property Record Industry Association (PRIA). Aptitude Solutions is successfully eRecording in 30 counties across the nation.

Register of Deeds Craig Olive states, "I am very excited and humbled to receive this high honor from Aptitude Solutions. Over a year ago, I saw that eRecording would be a cost saving method for how lawyers and businesses would send their documents into our office. With the soaring price of gasoline, this method cuts out individuals having to drive to our office to record documents.

In simple terms; this cost saving method is passed onto the citizens of Johnston County and North Carolina. Now the lenders, lawyers and professionals can send documents via email from their offices. The documents are then on-line within seconds, instead of taking several weeks to record. This saves time and money for everyone."
